

Creative Freedom

How Second Life is becoming a thinking space for designers

LAP OF LUXURY

A five-star development – but is it a house or a hotel?

THE NUMBERS GAME

Why the contract market is still the place to be

TOUCH AND GO

Combining the characteristics of Benno Heinz with those of Louis Braille, German company Karcher Design have presented these highly practical door handles for the blind. A lettering area is featured on the back of the handle onto which text can be applied in Braille. By simply feeling the reverse of the handle, blind and visually impaired people are informed which room they are entering.

Karcher Design: +49 72 6491 6452

www.karcher-design.com

